Unidentified Locations/Owners in England - buses that have been sold, but new owners have not been traced

This is a list of buses that are currently evading our sights. Compared to the mysteries of the 'Check' list, the buses on this page have changed ownership relatively recently, but we don't yet know where they have gone to, or who with. Please see the notes below for the last known details of each bus. If you can supply any more information about these buses, please contact us.
